

SUSTAINING CHANGE

“Environment is stronger than willpower”

ENVIRONMENT – centre, change what you can, accept any current limitations

- Surround yourself with those who support and inspire you
- Show up in the programme consistently and put as a priority to help keep momentum and accountability
- Make a physical sacred space as a refuge and practice zone.
- Avoid fear-based media, minimise all s.media.
- Connect more with the natural world
- Create more simplicity in your life
- Create flexible routines
- Your experience of your outer environment is a reflection of your inner environment, so coming back again and again simply to womb space, vertical core and light globe as foundational practices.

OBSERVATION is key about how things are and how you are feeling and ONLY THEN about how you might respond differently or act to change things if required.

The focus on awareness to SEE CLEARLY without entanglement is vital otherwise random attempts to change will mask the truth, bypass or confuse the current situation.

With observation you are training your capacity to see yourself with the sword of truth and the heart of compassion. Every time you observe an old pattern without engaging in it, you dissolve more of it's spell on you!

Regard yourself as your own scientific experiment, with curiosity and wonder rather than judgement and guilt.

Focus on observing the following during your day, not just the perceived 'negative' but also the positive shifts that occur through your practices and celebrate those:

1. Physical body – movement, breath, eat, walk, fidget, tension, pain, ease
2. Sense experiences – smell, light, colour, touch, pleasure
3. Thought awareness – not to change, to witness and question 'Is it true?'

4. Emotion – Surface emotion and what may be a deeper core feeling beneath.

5. Action, Re-action and Response – triggers and habits, why?

6. Energy levels – when is energy low and why? Avoidance? Over-reaching?
When is energy high or scattered and why? What happens after?

7. Attitudes +ve or -ve – awareness of how your attitude changes course of events, aversions/attachments

Training your powers of observation and awareness is training your ability to BE in presence, the unchanging state.

The more you align to this state of presence, the more your outer world reflects it, changes occur and are sustained with more ease.

You may have already felt compelled to change your diet, your clothes, your friends, the way you work, to be more in alignment with who you really are.

HOW TO DEAL WITH CHALLENGES TO SUSTAINING CHANGE

- Chaos/Change – life drama, holidays, sickness, busyness getting in the way.

Make it an opportunity for learning, flexibility, create simple rhythms, forgiveness, be curious about abundance limit, tests and karmic bombs. Celebrate the small stuff!

- Boredom – Bright shiny object ..... oooh!

Cultivate a beginner's mind, a hunger to learn and gain mastery, repetition = depth, make a change and leap, create subtle differences/focus to rekindle and introduce new elements to your practices, stay connected with peers.

- Tired – I'm too tired to do my practice.

Rest and bring in restorative practices, observe 'judgement, failure, should or have to' thoughts as fatigue arises from this attitude to life. Observe your rhythm when eating and doing – is there time to rest and digest mentally, emotionally and physically? Are you in resistance to what is? Cultivate your desire, your WHY!

- Repeated Blow – Seriously this again?

Perseverance and wisdom; are you trying too hard? Smaller goals/stepping stones, patient observation of what is there for me to learn from this? An opportunity to practice presence under pressure, ?need to change your actions – observe/reflect/respond

- Disillusionment – I'm not seeing the changes I want....

A new perspective of practice without attachment to the fruits of your labour, but to have a choice in how to feel RIGHT NOW. What would LOVE do? Celebrate every 'success' and positive change in your life, however small and whatever area of your life you see it in – things aren't always linear. Cultivate an attitude of gratitude rather than despair/blame/comparison to others. Are your expectations too high – how have you sustained change in the past?

CREATING NEW HABITS/PATTERNS

Simple, Regular, Flexible and Achievable

What is one thing you are ready to focus on changing (small is best)?

Is there anything you need to give yourself permission to leave alone that you are not ready to face changing?

How is the current habit/pattern unfulfilling and no longer useful PLUS what need or reward was it serving or delivering?

Transferral to a new habit – how can you harness aspects of your old pattern to create a new positive habit?

What makes a good habit rewarding for you?